SUPERIOR COURT.

Finding for Defendants in Case of St. Paul's Episcopal Church—Possibility of an Appeal.

When court came in Wednesday morning Judge Reed immediately read his decision on the motion made Tuesday afternoon to have the jury instructed to bring in a verdict for the defendants as had been asked for by them.

The decision was quite a long one, but the bulk of it was to the effect that the plaintiffs had not proven that the $10,000 had been raised within the year and he stated that as the supreme court had ruled that the $6,000 voted by the bishop and the standing committee could not be reckoned as a part of the $10,000 fund, the committee did not have it in its possession until after the year fixed by Mr. Boardman for raising the same had elapsed. He also ruled that the committee did not have the certificates of stock that Mr. Hatch had placed in his deposit box as he considered as a part of the fund, as he had never had endorsement turned toward the fund's use, and in the event of death there would have been nothing to indicate that they were part and parcel with the fund.

In view of these circumstances the court announced that he would grant the motion, request and instructed the jury to retire and bring in a verdict for the defendants.

The jury was out only a few moments and returned with a verdict as instructed by the court.

Mr. Hatch and the attorneys for St. Paul's Episcopal church stated that they did not now say whether an appeal to the supreme court would be taken. It is generally believed here that if any ground can be found for taking an appeal that the higher court will be given an opportunity of again having a chance to decide the case.

Court then adjourned until next Tuesday morning and ordered court adjourned until this morning at 10 o'clock.

FREE PUBLIC LIBRARY
Its Utility and Influence Described by Miss Curtis.

From the paper on The Uses of a Village Library, read Wednesday at Willimantic by Miss Evelyn Curtis before the meeting of the Connecticut Library association, the following facts concerning the free public library of Danielson are taken:

"In August, 1884, there was a meeting of young men in Danielson, which resulted in the formation of a Young Men's Library association, having for its object the intellectual, social and moral improvement of its members by the establishment of a library, together with lectures, essays, debates and such other exercises as from time to time may be approved.

"Two hundred dollars was voted for the purchase of books, and in November the library was opened for circulation.

"The first year's report showed 467 books and 111 subscribers.

"In 1877 the name was changed to the People's Library association, but it retained a subscription library until 1892.

"In that year the association transferred its library to the borough. It then received its present name of Free Public Library.

Made Free in 1899.
"In 1899 it was made free to the residents of the town of Kingsley. The town in return giving a fixed sum annually for general library use. All these years the books were housed in bookstore, church or business block, until June, 1902, the beautiful building, made possible through the generosity of Hon. Edwin Bagbee, was dedicated and our library of nearly 9,000 books was suitably housed.

"Thus in 55 years the library has grown from one of 467 with 111 subscribers to nearly 9,000 books with 1,400 borrowers and a building worth for the needs.

"The books are free to 7,000 people scattered over an area of 57 1-2 square miles.

"Last year 25,478 books, 568 more than any previous year, were loaned."

OBITUARY.

He is survived by his wife and daughter, Florence, who so strangely disappeared about a dozen years ago, while a student in a Massachusetts college for women, and whose fate remains shrouded in mystery, was a daughter of the deceased.

QUINEBAUG POMONA
Features of Meeting to Be Held With Scotland Grange on Saturday, the 29th.

Preliminary announcements mailed members of Quinebaug Pomona grange foretell an interesting meeting for next Saturday with Shetucket grange, No. 69, of Scotland. Features of the evening session will be explanation of the third degree by the officers of Brooklyn grange, who enjoy the reputation of being first in floor work among the Patrons of Connecticut.

Dinner will be served on the customary plan by the sisters of the local grange. The afternoon session, in addition to the usual business, a musical feature will be devoted to fruit growing, with Prof. A. G. Guiley of the Connecticut agricultural college as the principal speaker. The rapidly changing economic conditions in Connecticut and New England are bringing horticulture into more prominence every year and for interest and practical value, Lecturer Wheeler's programme is particularly timely.
